MEAN'S CLUB ENTERTAINS

A supper, music, speaking and indoor baseball filled the time Monday evening, at the first after vacation get-together of the Congregational Men's Club in the vestry. The club got away on a strong start for the winter's activities.

Invited guests were present from Bethel, Norway, Oxford, the Larger Parish, comprising Waterford, Stoneham, Albany, St. Petersburg, Fila, and New York. A meet, vegetable and pastry supper was served by the ladies of the church at 6:30. Tables were arranged in a hall square with center pieces of asters and other late cultivated flowers.

Ralph R. Butts, president of the club, was master of ceremonies at the opening of the after dinner program. Rev. Rensel H. Colby, the local pastor cordially extended greetings to the members and guests and secured a census of the towns represented. He announced a father and son banquet for the next club project and the president appointed the banquet committee as follows: Rev. O. Somner, chairman, Earl R. Clifford, Irving O. Barrows, Harry M. Shaw, Herbert Woodworth, Elmer Edmunds and Roland G. French.

Community singing was led by Rev. W. L. Hall of North Waterford, accompanied by the club orchestra, under the direction of Howard Shaw. The musicians were Nicholas Mather, piano; Kenneth Wilson, violin; James Mason, trombone; Howard Shaw, trumpet; Clarence H. Huff, trumpet. This team also furnished music during the supper hour for entertainment which was appreciated.

Rev. L. A. Edwards of Bethel was introduced as toastmaster and filled the bill in his usual pleasing manner. The first speaker was Rev. Rodney W. Rounsey of Portland, superintendent of the Congregational Christian Conference of Maine. His subject was "Maine Takes a Look at Herself", in which he emphasized the church as a spiritual force and builder of character.

Rev. W. S. Beard of New York and executive secretary of the Layman's Advisory Board discussed the church as a "Billion Dollar Corporation" with every man a stockholder. The address was for business men and in terms of high finance, punctuated with witty stories to bring out the points. Mr. Beard is a graduate of Phillips Andover Academy, Yale University and Phillips Exeter School. After serving as pastor at Durham, N. H., and Williamstown, Conn., in 1916, Mr. Beard became assistant secretary of the Congregational Home Missionary Society. Later he directed the Pilgrim Memorial Fund Campaign in Washington, Oregon and Idaho and from 1921 to 1924 he was secretary of promotion of the Commission of Missions. He has served in his present capacity since 1925.

A social get-together session followed, then merged into a baseball game with the Parisians under the leadership of Rev. W. C. R. T. Convent. A strong combination picked from the visiting delegations, captained by N. E. McAllister of Oxford. There was hot dirt juggling and plenty of good fellowship.

She had been laying all summer in the shed attached to the house and a few weeks ago, Mrs. Bane had noticed the hen was leaving that place to go to the hen house with the rest of the flock, so gathered up all the eggs, not leaving even a nest egg, but instead, she went across the road to their neighbor's and laid nineteen eggs, hatching thirteen of them. The family missed her but did not discover where until she had been setting about two weeks. What do you think of this for "hen thievery"?
